Fauteuil a dossier basculant (LC1) in black leather

Charlotte Perriand for Cassina, fauteuil a dossier basculant (lc1) in black leather, Italy, 1960s

The Fauteuil à dossier basculant (LC1), designed in 1928 by Le Corbusier, Pierre Jeanneret, and Charlotte Perriand, represents the perfect union of architectural clarity and human comfort. With its minimalist tubular steel frame and elegantly suspended leather seat, the LC1 captures the radical beauty of early modernism, where structure and proportion take center stage.
