Model 65A Armchair (Rolex), Set of 2

Florence Knoll for Knoll International, model 65a armchair (rolex), United States, March 17th 1965

Designed by Florence Knoll in 1956, model 65A Lounge Chair is one of the most recognizable and enduring expressions of mid-century modern design. Influenced by the clean lines and rational principles of modern architecture, Knoll created furniture that was elegant, functional, and perfectly suited to both corporate and residential interiors. Model 65A exemplifies this philosophy through its balanced proportions, refined grid-tufted upholstery, and slender steel frame, resulting in a design that feels as relevant today as it did nearly seventy years ago.
